111 Tempting Reasons to Stroll through Greenwich

Solange Berchemin, Martin Dunford 111 Places in Greenwich That You Shouldn't Miss

Which London district was the scene of a mythical murder? Where can you buy bread from a former Michelin starred chef and cheese from the shop where a famous popstar worked? And where can you see London's Sistine Chapel and play skittles with cannonballs?

A Discovery Tour of London's Maritime Borough

The Royal Borough of Greenwich is one of London's most historic neighbourhoods, with some of the capital's most compelling sights. It is not only the birthplace of Elizabeth I and even time itself, but it also offers many unknown surprises and unexpected oddities.

Experience the less explored pockets of this iconic borough through the eyes and words of enamoured locals. Join Solange Berchemin and Martin Dunford, as they lead you away from the more famed attractions sharing entertaining insights, cultural anecdotes, and insider tips in combination with stunning photographs by Karin Tearle.

No matter whether you have lived in Greenwich all of your life, are a frequent visitor or a first-time visitor, these are 111 things you might not have realised even existed.

Solange Berchemin was born in Lyon, France. Her Library Science degree at university marked the start of her adventures with words and stories. She moved to Greenwich with her partner three decades ago. She works as a food and travel journalist for major national publications and an international TV channel. She is the author of seven books among which is 111 Places in the Lake District That You Shouldn't Miss.

Martin Dunford lives in Greenwich and is one of the founders of the international travel guide series Rough Guides. He is the author of more than 10 guidebooks and was the publisher of Rough Guides for many years, before going on to found the UK travel and accommodation website www.coolplaces.co.uk. He also co-owns the popular Greenwich restaurant, Buenos Aires Café.

Karin Tearle has a BA in French and Italian from Goldsmiths University of London. She lived and worked in Bordeaux, France for several years before returning to the UK and has lived in Greenwich for 15 years. Karin is a trustee of the Rwanda Development Trust and also manages a listed building in historic Greenwich. She is a passionate amateur photographer and is membership and social secretary of Aperture Woolwich Photographic Society, one of the oldest clubs in the country.
